

Welcome!

This survey was designed in order to investigate how well we manage crisis in our higher education institutions. This is done by using this model for polarity management called PACT.

What are polarities? They are interdependent pairs of values/ solutions that need to be leveraged and managed in order to allow us to achieve what we call the greater purpose.

This survey will ask you to indicate how often you see or experience a number of different behaviors or situations within your organization especially during times of crisis. There are no right or wrong answers -- please read each item carefully and provide your true opinion for each. Here are some guidelines to consider when responding:

- Please answer each demographic question that may appear at the beginning of the assessment. This will help us understand and explore opinions from key stakeholder groups
- Only use the "Sometimes" response in cases where the behavior or situation in question occurs regularly but not frequently
- To help clarify, key terms may be underlined in BOLD blue font throughout the survey. Hover your cursor over them to reveal their definitions
- To log out and return later, click the Save & Exit button at the bottom of the page
- When you're done, click the Submit Survey button at the bottom of the page

Thank you again for taking the time to complete this survey! Your feedback is critical in helping us improve our organization.

WARNING! You are only previewing this assessment. None of your responses will be saved. This message does not appear on the actual assessment completed by respondents.
